The Yachts Will Sail to Windward.

The Vigilant is Expected to Show All of Her Good Qualities.

The Relay Riders' Race Reaches a Result—The Message Delivered Ahead of Time—L. A. W. Meeting Draws Near.

Associated Press Local Service.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(By Atlantic Cable.) It has been definitely arranged that the match between the Vigilant and the Britannia for the £100 offered by the Lord Wolverson shall be sailed on Wednesday. The race will be between miles to windward and return as proposed. Gould at first held out for a race toward and a beat home, but he has changed his mind and the agreement has been signed. Much interest is manifested in the race for if the Vigilant will show what she can do in the open sea in all points of sailing.

Notwithstanding the feeling entertained by many Americans here that the British yachting public have not treated the Vigilant in an exactly sportsmanlike manner, there is no difference of opinion as to the attitude of the Prince of Wales toward the Yankee sloop's owner. During the course of conversation between the Prince and the officers of the Vigilant, the Prince was particularly anxious that the Britannia should meet the Vigilant on the open sea in order that the merits of the two boats might be clearly judged.

The Prince had seen the boat's crew from the crew of the warships and he complimented them upon their good work.

HIS GERMANIC MAJESTY.

COWBOY, Aug. 12.—Emperor William, who came here on his imperial yacht, the Hohenzollern, to attend the regatta, paid farewell visits this morning to his personal friends on board the yacht. Prior to his departure he took lunch at Osborne house and bade farewell to the Queen and other members of the royal family. His Majesty this evening gave a dinner on the Hohenzollern. It was on a splendid scale. Among the most prominent guests were the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, Prince Henry of Battenberg, the Earl of Londonderry, the Earl of Devonport, Admiral Montagu and the Hon. Sir Drummond, and the members of the German embassy.

After successfully working the cities of San Jose, Watsonville, Gilroy, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Colton, Carlsbad, Anaheim, Santa Ana and Pasadena, he came to San Diego some days ago and began his work. He was to collect $1 per week subscriptions to suit clubs, hold drawings and thus get further subscriptions until he had got all the traffic would stand and then disappear.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT.

The Second Special Train Leaves Sacramento for London.

Associated Press Local Service.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 12.—The second special train of fruit for London will leave Sacramento tonight. It consists of two cars, each loaded with twelve tons of luscious California fruit: peaches, pears, plums, nectarines and grapes. The train will connect with the steamship Berlin at New York, which has refrigerators fitted up.

George H. Appel, agent for the California Fruit Transportation Company, which is at the head of this important enterprise, said today, in speaking of the shipment of California fruit to London: "Our company is exerting itself to its utmost toward making the fruit shipments to foreign markets a pronounced success, and next season expects to make this a part of its special service, by forwarding of special trains, perhaps daily, beginning with the luscious cherries and continuing with each variety of fruit. By placing this fruit in reach of the middle classes, who should consume large quantities of California green fruit, it is almost certain that a large trade will be built up."

The third special will be forwarded from Sacramento on August 30, and will connect with the fast sailing steamship New York.

A NOVEL SCHEME.

Chinese Admitted to This Country Under Fraudulent Certificates.

Associated Press Local Service.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 12.—Chinese inspectors Williams and Lynch of San Francisco, now in this city, have unearthed a novel scheme by means of which returning Chinese laborers have been admitted to this country. The scheme appears to have been formulated by James Russell, a detective of this city, whose dealings with Chinese have been of intimate nature. Certificates were drawn up in proper form and signed by well-known merchants, stating that the person referred to was a merchant, and underneath their signatures appeared the affidavit of Russell that the signatures were genuine and those of reputable citizens. On their face the certificates appeared to be perfectly regular, but were in fact fraudulent, neither Russell nor any one else swearing to the fact that the Chinese referred to were bona fide citizens. At least fifty Chinese are said to have been admitted at San Francisco on certificates of this character sent out from the city. The force of the racket is being vigorously ventilated and attempts made to punish offenders. Quan Leong, a Chinese laborer, was arrested by the inspectors here on Friday for entering on such a certificate on April 7.

He ventured beyond the life-lines at a time when the tide was ebbing, and the strong undertow carried him beneath the breakers before help arrived. BRITISH MARYS.

The Output of the Manchester Mills Excessive.

Associated Press Local Service.

MANCHESTER (England) Aug. 12.—(By Atlantic Cable.) The position of the market during the past week was unchanged, which means that matters are gradually approaching the point where overproduction and record-breaking low prices must induce drastic remedies.

The large experts are apparently unable to absorb the output, therefore there are always needy sellers who are ready to accept the best offer going. The indications are that the Indian markets are becoming glutted. Still offers low limits were fairly numerous, especially in Calcutta. Further little was done. The minor markets like South America and the Levant were rather more active. Yarn continued to sell slowly, needed by weavers generally at a loss.

Neither buyers nor sellers were anxious to do forward business. The spot market was rather more active. Yarn continued to sell slowly, needed by weavers generally at a loss.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The reduction in the joint stock bank rates of interest on deposits caused a revival of speculation at the Stock Exchange during the week. The prohibitive prices of gilt-edge securities have given second and third-rate investments a chance. A strong rise in home securities was the feature of the week. The American securities are denounced here as the worst specimens in many years. The prospect of a settlement on the American tariff question has been the cause of the belief being that the commercial crisis in the United States had reached its turning point. Foreign securities, including South American, were all firm. The next day's trading was rather more active. The European bourses are equally animated. The improvement in silver brought out buyers of Mexican railway bonds and shares.

Some of the railways are operated by American railways, and Denver and Rio Grande preferred, 2; Atchafalpa, 2; Central Pacific and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul each 1 1/2; Northern Pacific, 1 1/2; Atchafalpa and Denver 1 1/2; American railways also advanced well.

A Swell Congregation in Swindling Honest Colored People.

DENVER, Aug. 12.—Many colored citizens of this city are anxiously looking for Charles P. Grove, alias "Blue Dick," alias the "Four-time Millionaire," one of their own race. Grove, while here, posed as president of the Montana-Illinois Mining and Milling Company, and armed with a number of town lots and mining claims in and about Grove City, supposed to be not far from Butte, Mont. Grove is said to have started on his career by buying shares in the Gold Leaf Mining Company, and then he went to Washington, D. C., but was prevented from doing great damage by threats of exposure by Montana people, who knew about his previous record. Grove is now in Denver, and is supposed to be in the city of the colored people, made lots of money. His most profitable fields were Lexington, Ky., and Chicago.

At Denver he was the affection of the daughter of a wealthy colored man. The father of the bride, learning of Grove's true character, wrote to his daughter to come home, which she did. Grove is now in Denver, and is supposed to be in the city of the colored people, made lots of money. His most profitable fields were Lexington, Ky., and Chicago.

THE PLAZA MARKET

It Must Be Seen to Be Properly Appreciated.

A. Long Felt Public Want Only Partially Filled by the Institution.

What Could Be Done if the City Authorities Would Move in the Matter—A Plain Proposition.

"Can you direct me to the city market, please," asked a lady on the street a few days ago.

The speaker had a large comfortable, looking market basket tucked under her arm, and the man to whom the query was addressed looked a little puzzled.

“The farmers here are well established, and I wanted to get some nice fruit, vegetables and butter right from the farmers, so as to be sure they're good.”

But the party addressed did not seem much enlightened by this explanation, and, with a look of incredulity at the men's thought, that he guessed there wasn't one. The look of surprise still lingered on his face as he proceeded down the street, marveling somewhat at the notion that a city that had just been forced upon his mind.

A city of $5,000 inhabitants without a city market—how funny!

As a matter of fact, however, this is not altogether true.

Los Angeles has a market, although everybody doesn't know where it is. And there is a place where the farmers with their wagon loads of farm produce can sell their goods to the prospective purchaser can bend his store, although it is not because the city has provided it, or decreed it, or set such a plot of ground by necessity. It is the only place in the city fitted in point of size and location or character for the purpose. It is the only place where the farmer with his choicest vegetable and poultry, and the thrifty housewife with her choice of fresh fruit and produce, has grown up as naturally as though the city fathers had decided, after hours of sober deliberation, that it was the only place where the city people in general were suitable for the purpose.

Get up early some morning and go down to the city square, which is the center of the old city square, which, by the way, is round, where the business life of the city is centered in the early days long gone by, the place where Main street and Aliso and Los Angeles and Marchessault and half a dozen other streets converge, and where there is a little miniature city park, with its fountains and grass plots and flower beds, and where you will find a crowd of intruders, and encroaching and intersecting cement sidewalks. If you go down there early in the morning, and walk in the morning, you will see the city fathers and marv at its size, at the amount of farm produce that is disposed of in the city. The business is not done about all, at the keen competition among the different vendors of nature's products for a favorable position in the day's business arena.

Before the first streaks of gray dawn the rooster crows, and the rooster upon the roost has begun to crow, while the electric lights are still casting their flitig light up and down deserted streets, and the city is still peacefully taking some of that much-needed rest on his beat, the most zealous of the old sages of the city, the most old-sage of the early bird and the previous worm, is urging his sleepy bronco to get up and get on his way to the city suburbs to the city's improvised market place.

The available space about the little park for a accommodation of the market is limited, very limited. Those that get there late and find every desirable thing sold, are obliged to go to the city say that a city of the size of Los Angeles ought to be able to afford better accommodations.

That is why the more enterprising ones get up early and pounce upon the best of the produce in the morning, within a few hours before they can hope to see a purchaser upon the scene. That is why it is time for the authorities to see to it and provide an adequate marketing system for the benefit of the buyer and seller. They also advocate it on other ground that such is an absolute necessity in every city of the size of London.

At present very few people outside of the restaurant and hotelkeepers, the small grocers and the few farmers who are aware of the existence of a market where grower and buyer can meet on mutually advantageous terms.

There is a market, however, about it, and he is on hand to buy fruit and vegetables at a cent a pound from the farmer who has brought his produce to market. Then, a few hours later, sell them with a pretty sang froid to the householder at 10 cents. He knows that all berries—blackberries, huckleberries, and so on—thoughtfully provides himself with underground, deceptive-looking boxes, three of which are placed in the open, and the rest from the crates in which the fruit comes from the berry patch. All these things the peddler understands very thoroughly, as he has been peddling for years in the throughout the city suffers accordingly.

But while this busy, early-morning, peddler is thus engaged, the city is still up at the Plaza during the last four or five years in spite of natural obstacles, it is a notorious fact among those who have seen the city that the present inadequate to the needs of the city. The peddlers complain both because the accessible to the city is not large enough insufficient for the hundreds of wagon that come there every morning, and because they are victimized out of a large portion of their profits by the city's realize with a proper market. Within the last week, indeed, ever since the city's needed and the peddlers' complaints have coming around, and demanding peddlers' relief from them, their complaints have been taken into consideration and the city is now endeavoring to find a way to solve the problem.

The general public has a right to demand that the authorities provide someplace for a market place where they can buy their necessities for a very small amount of money without having to pay extortionate tribute to the middleman. Horticultural Commissioner Scott and his colleagues were watching the growth of the plaza market for several years, and were emphatic in saying that the city ought to have a market place of its own. They are also agreed that the plaza is the very place for that purpose.

The value of the plaza to the neighborhood would be largely increased by the establishment of a market there, and those who are desirous of retaining some portion street could find no better method for doing so than to get the city authorities to establish a permanent, regularly-conducted city market, with stalls and wagon stands for rent to all comers.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

A Lottery Vender Detected in Selling a Ticket.

While Officer Rhine was patrolling his beat on North Main street, about 9 o'clock yesterday morning, he saw a man named Max Kaufman sell a lottery ticket to a companion by the name of Andrea Melissen. The two men were promptly arrested and taken to the police station, where they were searched. A lottery ticket was found in Melissen's possession, and a charge was placed against Kaufman of selling lottery tickets, with bail fixed at $50.

A friend of Kaufman put in an appearance at the police station shortly afterward and secured his release by putting up the necessary $50 in cash. Then they decided that it would be a good idea to get Melissen out, too, and fix up some kind of a story so they handed over bail money to the amount of $100 to Clerk Fowle and departed with their man. Kaufman is notorious as a lottery-ticket shover.

FIELD OF POLITICS.

LOCAL DEMOCRATS ARE NOT UNITED.

The City Delegates, However, are in the Majority and Can Carry Their Plans Through Successfully—Political Mention.

From the spirit manifested at the convention held Saturday, it seems plain that the Democrats of the county are not altogether united on many questions and that some differences of opinion may arise when the nominations are made in September. One thing very certain, however, and that is that the solid city representation will prove equal to the occasion of swinging the country members when the time comes. The combination put up at the primaries is a hard one to beat, and, unless internal dissension is aroused, the "rowd" will do the nominating to suit themselves. It is probable the Democrats will hold their county convention immediately after the Republicans nominate, for September 11 was the date proposed on Saturday, although no definite time was fixed.

As to the Democratic delegates who go to San Francisco, they are in favor of George S. Patton for Congress. While they are generally undecided and uncommitted on other points.

The State Democratic Convention will be held in San Francisco, beginning August 21.

POLITICAL MENTION.

The Los Angeles Republican Club will hold a special meeting tonight in their rooms on Second street, when a number of good speakers will make addresses. At the Jonathan Club Saturday evening an enjoyable time was had by those who participated in the entertainment, which has now become a social event of each week. J. W. Krause contributed vocal and piano solos, Shirley Baker, Walter Talbot, P. A. Fenimore and H. L. Combs also sang. Then there were recitations by C. L. Keany and Thomas Barnes, a mandolin duet by Prof. Gardner and Mr. Platts and orchestra selections by H. P. Moore, James Green, Harry Schenman and Clarence Blanchard, beside several other attractive members.

The Millard Republican Club of the Second Ward will meet this evening for a few moments and then adjourn and attend in a body the social gathering at the Los Angeles Club rooms.

Saloon-keeper Robbed.
An unknown burglar entered the room of P. F. Gibbons, the saloon-keeper, at No. 337 East First street, at an early hour Sunday morning, and after rifling a pair of trousers of some small change, made good his escape.

The burglar entered the room by twisting the lock off the door with a pair of nippers. He was bold, but not very keen, as the trousers, from which the money was taken were under Gibbons's pillow, while a watch lying on a neighboring table, was left untouched. The matter was reported to the police authorities yesterday, but the thief has not yet been captured.
